As an employer, your organization's Respectful Workplace - Harassment Prevention efforts need to be current and compliant with legislated requirements. People First HR Services has earned a reputation for the delivery of effective, dynamic and comprehensive Respectful Workplace Training programs for managers, supervisors and employees.

People First provides training both in person and online to ensure your employees are up-to-date on harassment information.

Our Respectful Workplace Training covers:

Harassment and violence prevention in the workplace

Rights and responsibilities of employers and employees

Characteristics of a respectful workplace

What disrespectful or harassing behaviour looks like, the impacts of this behaviour and how to address it

Online vs in-person training

While in-person training allows participants to interact and ask questions, it's not always possible to bring people together. Online Respectful Workplace training can be cost effective and convenient for organizations with remote bases or fluctuating new hires.
